

Your parents tell you to clean up and you obey.

You read your Bible each morning when you wake.

You watch TV instead of working on reading that is due Friday.

Your toy is low on batteries, so you take some from another device without telling your parents.

You feed your pet without being told to.

You hide your toys from your siblings.

You stayed on your video game instead of helping with the dishes.

You told a friend about what you are learning at church.

You noticed your friend needed someone to play with and you included them.

You slept in this morning.
